

AGH previews its Design Annex

July 4, 2012

The Art Gallery of Hamilton offered the public a sneak peak of the AGH Design Annex, its satellite location in the heart of the James Street North .

The new facility officially opens Saturday July 7 and is intended to allow the AGH to provide a range of programming it would not offer at the main gallery.

"The Design Annex is a vital new branch of the Art Gallery of Hamilton," said Louise Dompierre, President and CEO, Art Gallery of Hamilton. "Here, people will be able to see experimental exhibitions, and discover new products, many of which will be made by local artists and artisans."

The Hamilton Spectator

DESIGN ANNEX. A look inside the AGH's new Design Annex on James Street North. Gary Yokoyama/The Hamilton Spectator Source: The Hamilton Spectator